For comfortable prolonged sitting – And better concentration

Anyone who has to stay concentrated for a long period of time needs a special chair. Control room chairs made by LÖW ERGO were developed for these requirements. They prevent postural deformity and support bone structure and skeletal muscles. The achieved optimal metabolic function promotes your attention and reduces fatigue.

24/7 control room chairs help people in emergency centres, control rooms and stands to stay mentally and physically fit. Their individual adjustability with lumbar support and special padding provide for a proper seated position. For utmost attention and excellent performance, from day to day.
